Celebrate Wedding Anniversary.

St. Louis Republic.
Colonel Hunter Ben Jenkins and wife today celebrate the thirty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, which occurred September 14, 1870. They began receiving telegrams and congratulations from their friends yesterday. Among them was a telegram from William S. Hays, river editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, with whom they have been acquainted for years.

Col. Jenkins met Mrs. Jenkins first when she was a passenger on the steamer Glasgow in 1869. Colonel Jenkins was then a second clerk on that steamer. Their marriage took place soon afterward. Col. Jenkins is now more than 70 years old and is as active today as he was 20 years ago.

He has been associated in the St.
Louis river trade since 1895, and besides having the largest acquaintance of any veteran river man, enjoys the distinction of being one of the best posted men on marine affairs in the United States.

Col. and Mrs. Jenkins have received many presents from their friends.

Colonel Jenkins is a member of the Lexington Camp No. 648 U. C. V., and is an old Lexington boy.

About a Former Lexingtonian.

A copy of the Jessamine News, published at Nicholasville, Ky., has been received at this office. The News reports the opening of Jessamine Institute, of which Prof. H. H.
Savage, formerly Music Director of Lexington College, is president, as most encouraging. Ninety-five pupils were enrolled the first day. President and Mrs. Savage both taught here for several years, where they made many friends who will be glad to know of the success of their first year in a new field.

The new romantic melodrama, "In Old Virginia," portrays life as it was "belle de wahl" in the Southland, whose children were ever open-handed, generous, rich, loyal and kindly always, though on occasions, fiercely jealous and savage. You may see the strings of lazy blacks slowly crawling down the lane to the outlying fields, where the hoe need scarcely to tickle the earth ere it springs into an abundant harvest. It treats of the home of romance, it is replete with perfume of honeysuckle and jasmine and the moonlight sonata of the nightingale. This play will be the attraction at the opera house Monday, September 24.
